This is who he endorsed, among all the options (several of who were much more progressive): dissentmagazine.org/online_article…

> Macron wants to roll back state intervention in the economy, cut public-sector jobs, and reduce taxes on business and the ultra-rich. He wants to deepen employer-friendly labor reforms. And he backs the current direction of the European Union, viciously hostile to public investment across the continent. All in all, it's a program nearly guaranteed to aggravate the problems at the heart of France's political crisis: unemployment, inequality, and poverty. These are the same forces driving growing numbers of French people to withdraw from politics altogether—or worse yet, cast ballots for the National Front.

What happened on AHCA:
1 Ryan wrote a terrible bill
2 Trump hugged it
3 America hated it-mass protests
4 GOP wouldn't walk plank on bad bill

Key to the deal, they report, are changes to the law that would eliminate the Affordable Care Act's "essential health benefits," a list of 10 categories of procedure that all insurance plans offered to individuals or small businesses must cover. The 10 are, in the words of Healthcare.gov:

- Outpatient care without a hospital admission, known as ambulatory patient services
- Emergency services
- Hospitalization
- Pregnancy, maternity, and newborn care
- Mental health and substance use disorder services, including counseling and psychotherapy
- Prescription drugs
- Rehabilitative and habilitative services and devices, which help people with injuries and disabilities to recover
- Laboratory services

> The Republican push to replace Obamacare – backed forcefully by President Donald Trump and House Speaker Paul Ryan —is in jeopardy, as a last-ditch bid by the White House to win conservative support late Wednesday appeared to repel moderates.
> Moderate Republicans huddled with Speaker Paul Ryan and House leaders for nearly two hours Wednesday night but emerged without consensus. Immediately after exiting the meeting, Rep. Charlie Dent (R-Pa.), leader of the House's moderate Tuesday Group, panned the bill, known as the American Health Care Act.
> "After careful deliberation, I cannot support the bill and will oppose it," Dent said in a statement upon leaving the meeting. "I believe this bill, in its current form, will lead to the loss of coverage and make insurance unaffordable for too many Americans, particularly for low-to-hopefully AHCA addresses this. Reducing overall spending on healthcare will benefit the economy.

How the U.S. Can Reduce Waste in Health Care Spending by $1 Trillion

Types of Waste in U.S. Health Care Spending

CATEGORY	DESCRIPTION	PERCENT OF HEALTH CARE SPENDING
CLINICAL WASTE	Spending that could be reduced with better prevention or higher-quality initial care; replacing services with less-resource-intensive alternatives; or improving processes by standardizing best practices	14%
ADMINISTRATIVE COMPLEXITY	Spending that could be eliminated with simpler, more-standardized processes for billing and collections, credentialing, compliance, and oversight	9%
EXCESSIVE PRICES	Overspending resulting from paying high prices charged by inefficient suppliers (including providers), which could be eliminated by tying prices to efficiency, outcomes, and a fair profit	5%
FRAUD AND ABUSE	Spending associated with illicit schemes to extract payments for the illegitimate delivery of health	7%

Remember what Trump said about his health care plan in January?

washingtonpost.com/politics/trump…

> "We're going to have insurance for everybody," Trump said. "There was a philosophy in some circles that if you can't pay for it, you don't get it. That's not going to happen with us." People covered under the law "can expect to have great health care. It will be in a much simplified form. Much less expensive and much better."
